

November 13, 2006

Dear Friends and Families:

This letter is an invitation, like many you will receive during the upcoming holiday season. In it, we ask you to make room on your calendars and in your hearts to celebrate and support the children and adults in our community with autism spectrum disorders. And we ask you to consider us as you count your blessings and decide to share them with others less able or fortunate.

We hope you'll see this invitation as an chance to make a difference for children like Zachary, a 4-year old boy with autism in our Domino Project Preschool who said Mama for the first time just a few weeks ago. We hope you'll see it as a way to support a friend, neighbor or coworker whose family is affected by autism; as a chance to do something amazing right here in your own community, where 1 in 166 children will be diagnosed with autism in 2007.

Please join us for an evening of celebration and gratitude. We hope you'll bring a friend...
